

Photo: Richard Else

Traidcraft producer: Josses Mwinaka, son of a tea farmer, Kibena, Malawi. Josses (aged 9), a pupil at Lihogosa Primary School, fetches water from one of the pumps which provide Kibena workers and their families with fresh water. The pump was built using the Fairtrade premium in 2001.

Photo: Richard Else

Traidcraft

producer: Thuy Thi Nguyen, rice farmer and weaver who is part of a village craft group benefiting from Traidcraft's development work in Vietnam.

"My weaving is very important. It helps me buy food and send my children to school."

Photo: Shailan Parker

Traidcraft producer: Siji Jose, a tea farmer with Sahyadri Tea Farmers, India. Selling her tea on Fairtrade terms through the Sahyadri Tea Farmers Consortium helps Siji to get a good price for the tea, which means she can send her children to school and put food on the family table.

“My church life is important to me. I am a Sunday School teacher and I am teaching Standard 1.”

Photo: Richard Else

Traidcraft
producer:

Beekeeper Stephen Maganga, Tabora, Tanzania. Traidcraft Exchange's Bee Fair project aims to re-establish beekeeping as a profitable way of life in Tabora, through enabling beekeepers to find new routes to market and get a fair deal for their honey.

"With the money from honey I provide food for my family, as well as health care and school fees. There are 11 in my family, including me and my wife. We have nine children."

Photo: Richard Else

Traidcraft producer: Echamma Pujari (right), is a coffee farmer with Small & Marginal Tribal Farmers Mutually Aided Cooperative Society (MACS), India. More than 5,700 tribal farmers are members of MACS and Traidcraft is their first

Fairtrade buyer. The coffee project is designed to improve incomes to coffee farmers through collective organisation, organic farming and marketing. “We are able to get a good price. We have bought one new cow and we are building a good house with the coffee money.”